Lead Developer

Smart, Simple, Smile

"A lack of passion can do more harm than simple inexperience."

About me

Communication, team building and bridging the gap between customer, commerce and development is what I am good at. How? By using the right words, having a genuine interest, and being able to simplify things.

Technology and software development are my passions. I am always curious to understand how things work, both on a human and technical level. As a result, I am always open to learning new things and eager to improve in everything I do.

Developing high-quality and sustainable software with a team of talented and passionate developers, each with their own unique talents and skillsets, is what I enjoy!
